I. PARALIPOMENON.

[Prologue on the First book of Paralipomenon[a].]

THIS book of Paralipomenon, the firste, bigynneth at Adam, rehersynge the riȝt lyne of generacioun in to Abraham, and alle the sones of Abraham, and the sones of hem, touchinge schortli of Saul king, and afterward of Dauith; rehersinge many thingis whiche ben not writen in the book of Kingis before, til to the regne of kyng Salomon. Here endith the prologe, and here bigynneth the firste book of Paralipomenon.

The Prolog in the first boke of Paralipomenon[a].

ȝIF the makynge of the seuenty remenours abyde styll pure, and as it is turned of hem in to Greek, my Chromati, holiest and wysest of byschopis, in veyn thou schuldist bydden me that I translate to thee Ebreu volymes in Latyn word. Forsothe that hath ocupied onys the eris of men, and hath streynthid the feith of the waxynge chirche, riȝtwijs was also with oure sylence to be apreued. Nowe forsothe whan dyuerse saumplers ben born for the dyuersite of regyouns, and thilk[b] olde germeyn translacyoun is corrupt and defoulid, thou wenyst[c] of oure dome to ben, outher to schewen of manye[d] whiche be verrey, outher[e] a new werk to maken in old werk, the Jewis forsothe scornynge, that, as it is seid, to fytche to gyder eeȝen[f] of curluris[g]. IFF the makynge of the seuenti interpretours dwelle stille cleene, and as it is turned of hem in to Greek, than thi silf, my Cromat, hoolyeste and wysest of bisschopis, shuldest in veyn bidde me, that I shulde translate to thee Ebrew volyms in to Latyn word. For it was riȝtwise, that sich thing that hath occupied ones the eeris of men, and hath strengthid the feith of the wexynge chirche, shulde be appreued with oure silence. Now forsothe sith dyuerse saumpleris ben born aboute for diuersite of regiouns, and sith thilke old translacioun of german is corrupt and defoulid, thou trowist that it be of oure owne doom, ethir to schewe of many draweris of hooly writ which is verie and trewe, eithir to make a newe werk on the oolde werk, and thouȝ the Jewis scorne, and, as me semeth, hem to ficche to gideris the iȝen of kurlewis. And certis Origenes not oonly exsaumplis[l] maad in oon of foure makyngis, 'forn a3eyn[m] alle the wordis discryuynge, that the oon discordynge, the tother betwene[n] hem silf acordynge, anoon be vndernomyn; bot, that is of more hardynesse, in the makynge of the seuenty he mengide the makynge of Theodocioun, that is, markynge that weren to lytyl with sygnys of a sterre, and that weren seen ouermych leid to, with[o] lityl 3erdis. 3if thanne to other it was leful not to holden that oons thei hadden taken; and aftir seuenty lytyll sellis, the whiche with outen auctour of the comoun ben boostid, thei[p] opneden alle the sellis, that forsothe in the chirche is rad that the seuenty knewyn not; why[q] me taken not my Latyn men, the whiche han maad so the newe with[r] the olde makynge vndefoulid, that[s] my traueyl I preue with the[t] Ebrewis, and, that is more than these, with the Apostlis auctours. I wrote not 3ore a boke of the best maner of remenynge[u], schewynge[v] tho thingis of the euangely[w], Fro Egipt I haue clepide[x] myn sone, and, That Na3are he schal be clepid[y], and, Thei schul seen in whome thei hau pungid; and that of the apostle, That ee3e hath not seen, ne ere hath herde, ne in to the hert of man hath stey3ide up, the whiche God hath maad redye before to the louynge hym; and other lijc to thes, in the bokis of Ebrewis to ben founden. Certis the apostlis and the euaungelistis hadden knowen the seuenty remenours, and whenns that to hem to seyn tho thingis that in the seuenty ben not had? Crist, oure God, is maker of either testament, in[z] euangelie aftir Joon, Who[a] leuith[b], he seith[c], in me, as seith the Constantynoble vnto Antioche appreueth the sampleris of martir Lucian; the meene prouencis bytwene these reden Palestinys bookes, whiche Eusebie and Pamphilie puplichiden, whanne thei hadden traueyld it out of Origene; and al the world stryuen to gideres withynne hem silf in thes thre manere of dyuersitees. And certis Origene not oonly made to gideres the ensamplis of foure drawyngis out of hooly writ, in to oon discriuynge alle the wordes of the cuntrey, so that oon discordynge be vndurnome anoon of the othir bookis acordynge to gyderes; but that is of more hardynesse, in the makynge of seuenty translatouris he medlide the markynge of Theodocion, that is to wite, markynge with the signes of a sterre siche thingis that weren to litle, and siche thingis that weren addid to of superfluyte, he markyde with litil 3erdis, eithir sygnes of an arowe. Therfor if it was leefful to othir not to holden that thei hadden onys toke, and aftir the seuenty selles, which of the selles, which of the comynte ben bostid to be, with out auctor thei openyde alle the selles, also that that seuenty interpretours knowen not is red in chirches; whi thanne my Latyn men accepten not me, sithen I haue maad the newe drawynge with the olde makyng vndefoulid, that I preue my trauel with the Ebrewis, and also with the Apostlis, auctoritees that ben more worthi than thei. I wroot a book not ful longe ago, mye beste manere of drawyng out of hooly writ, shewynge thes tixtis of the gospel folewynge to be in the bookes of Ebrewes; as this tixt, Fro Egipt I haue clepid my sone; and also this tixt, He shal be clepid Nazarey; and also the tixt, Thei shulen se into whom thei han thour3 persed; also this tixt of the pistle; That i3e hath not seen, ne eere herd, ne it hath not stied vp in to the herte of men, the whiche God hath maad redy byfore to Forsothe it is writen, that the Saueoure witnessith to ben writen; where it is writen, the seuenty han not; the hyd thingis knowith not the chirche. To the Ebrewis than it is to turnen a3eyn, wherof[f] and the Lord spekith, and the disciplis beforn taken exsaumplis. Thes thingis bi pese of olde men I speke, and to my bacbyters oonly I answer, the whiche gnawen me with a dogge[g] tothe, in opyn bacbytynge, reedynge in corners, and[h] acusatours and defendours, whann in other men they apreuen that in me thei repreuen; as vertue and vice ben not in the thingis, bot with the autour ben chaungid. Bot I haue had mynde the makyng of the seuenty translatours, sumtyme fro Greke amendid, me to haue 3euen to 3oure[i], and not enmye of hem owyn to ben eymed, whome in the couent of bretheren euermore I schal expownen. And othir textes that ben lijk these, ben fonden in the book of Ebrewis. Certis the apostlis and the euangelistis hadden knowe the seuenti interpretours, and fro whennus come that grace to hem to scie tho thingis that ben not had among the seuenti interpretours? Crist, our God, maker of euere eithir testament, in the gospel aftir Joones writynge seith thus, Who euere byleueth in me, as seith hooly scripturis, floodis of a quyk watir schulen folewe of his wombe. Forsothe that thing that oure Sauyour witnessith to be write, it is sikirliche writen; but the seuenti interpretours han no mencioun where it is writun; the chirche knowith not hid thingis. Therfor it is to turne a3en to Ebrews, wher of oure Lord spekith, and the disciplis bifor takun ensaumplis. I speke thes thingis with the pees of olde men, and I answere oonly to my bacbiters, which gnawen me with a doggi tooth, bagbitynge me in open, redynge the same in corneris, and also accusours and defenderis thei ben, sithen thei approuen in othir men that thei repreuen in me; as thou3 vertues and vyces ben not in thingis, but ben chaungid with the auctoure. Ferthermore I have remembrid me, that I haue 3oue to 3oure scripturis the makynge of the seuenty translature, that was sumtyme amendid fro Greek, and therfor I ou3te not to be gessid an enemy of hem, which euere more I shal expowne to the couent of briththren. And that book that is now clepid Debrayamyn, that is, the wordis of dayes, I haue translatid; therfor I haue doon it that I my3te brynge to ri3t thilke betyngis, that ben ful hard to be opened, and to opene the wordis of names, the which thour3 vice of writeris ben confoundid, and more opynly by dulnesse of wittis, and by destyncioun of uerse; to my silf and to my writynge aftir Hismenyum, thou3 the eeris of other men be doumb.

Therfor Dauid 4 ȝedė, and al Israel, in to Jerusalem; this Jerusalem is Jebus, where Jebuseis enhabiteris of the lond weren. And thei that 5 dwelliden at Jebus seiden to Dauid, Thou schalt not entre[w] bidur. Forsothe Dauid took the hiȝ tour of Syon, which is the[x] citee of Dauid; and he seide, Ech man 6 that 'sleeth first[y] Jebusei, schal be prince and duyk. Therfor Joab, sone[z] of Saruye, stiede[a] first, and was maad prince. So- 7 theli[b] Dauid dwellide in the hiȝ tour, and therfor it was clepid the cytee of Dauid; and he bildide the citee in cumpas fro 8 Mello til to the cumpas; forsothe[c] Joab bildide the tother part of the citee. And 9 Dauid profitide goynge[d] and wexynge, and the Lord of oostis was with hym. These 10 ben the[e] princes of the stronge men of Dauid, that[f] helpiden hym, that he schulde be kyng on[g] al Israel, bi the word of the Lord which he spak to Israel. And this 11 is the noumbre of the stronge men of Dauid; Jesbaam, the sone of Achamony, was prince among thretti; this reiside[h] his schaft ethir spere on[i] thre hundrid woundid men in o tyme. synde men, araied with armuris of[q] batel.
Alle these men werriouris and redi to batel 38 camen with perfit herte in to Ebron, to make Dauid kyng on[r] al Israel; but also alle the residue[s] of Israel weren of oon herte, that Dauid schulde be maad king on[t] al Israel. And thei weren ther at 39 Dauid thre daies, and eten and drunken; for her britheren hadden maad redi to hem; but also thei that weren ni3 hem, 40 til to Isacar and Zabulon and Neptalym, brou3ten looues on assis, and camelis, and brasse forsothe and of yren there is no weiȝt, forsothe the noumbre is ouer passed by mychilnesse; trees and stoonis I haue maad redye before to alle the expenses.

15 Thou hast also many craftise men, masouns, and leyers, and craftisemen of trees, and of alle craftis, most wijs to 16 don werk, in gold, and syluer, brasse, and yren, of the whiche is no noumbre; rijs than, and make, and the Lord schal 17 be with thee. And Dauid comaundide to alle the princis of Yrael, that thei 18 schulden helpen Salomon, his sone, seyinge, ȝe seen, that the Lord oure God is with us, and hath ȝeuen to us rest by batels; thou mayst not bilde an hows to my name, for thou hast sched out so myche blood bifor me; the sone that schal 9 be borun to thee, schal be a man most pesible, for Y schal make hym to haue reste of alle hise enemyes bi cumpas, and for this cause he schal be clepid pesible, and Y schal ȝyue pees and reste in Israel in alle hise daies. He schal bilde an hows 10 to my name; he schal be to me in to a sone, and Y schal be to hym in to a fadir, and Y schal make stidefast the seete of his rewme on[w] Israel withouten ende. Now 11 therfor, my sone, the Lord be with thee, and haue thou prosperite, and bilde thou an hows to 'thi Lord God[x], as he spak[y] of[z] thee[a]. And the Lord ȝyue to thee 12 prudence and wit, that thou mow gouerne Israel, and kepe the lawe of 'thi Lord God[b]. For thanne thou maist profite, if 13 thou kepist the comaundementis[c] and Moises, that he schulde teche Israel; be thou coumfortid, and do[d] manli, drede thou not 'with outforth[e], nether drede thou 'with ynne[f]. Lo! in my pouert Y haue 14 maad redi the costis of the hows of the Lord; an hundrid thousinde talentis of gold, and a thousynde thousynde talentis[g] of siluer; sotheli[h] of bras and irun is no weiȝte, for the noumbre is ouercomun[i] bi[j] stoonys to[l] alle costis. Also thou hast ful 15 many crafti men, masouns, and leggeris of stonys, and crafti men of trees, and of alle craftis, most prudent to make werk, in 16 gold, and siluer, and bras[m], and in yrun, of which is no noumbre; therfor rise thou[n], and make[o], and the Lord schal be with thee. Also Dauid comaundide to 17 alle the princis of Israel, that thei schul-den helpe Salomon, his sone, and seide[p], 18

Eusebius, Jerome[b] senden gretynge to theirs in Crist Jhesu, Domynyon and Rogacian. What maner wijse thei beter vndirstonden the stories of Grekis, the whiche han seen Athenas; and the thrid boke of Virgilie, the whiche han seiled fro Troye bi Lewchaten, and fro Acroceranya to Cicilie, and thennys to the doris of Tibre; so hooly Scripture he schal more clerly beholden, that Jude hath seen with ee3en, and the myndis[c] of olde[d] cytees, and placis knowith names, or the same, or chaungid[e]. Wherfore and to us it was fors[f] with the most tau3te men of Ebruys this traueil[g] to vndirgone, that we gon aboute the prouynce, that alle the chirchis of Crist sownen. Forsothe whanne of me 3e hadden asked sumtyme bi lettris, that to 3ou I schulde translatyn Paralipomenon in Latyn sermoun, I toke of Tiberyades sumtyme autour of lawe, the[k] whiche anentis the Ebrewis was had in wondryngis, and I disputed with hym fro the top, as thei seyn, vnto the laste nayl; and so confermyd, I am hardy to don that 3e comaundiden[l]. Forsothe frely to 3ou I speke; so in Greek and in Latyn bokis, this boke of namys is vicious, that not oonly Ebrue namys, but straunge sum and addid cast to gider it be to demyn. Ne that to the seuenty remenours, the whiche ful of the Hooly Goost tho thinges that weren sothe translatiden, bot to the blame of wrijters it is to wijten, while of the vnamendid thei wrijten vnamendide thingis; and oft sithes thre namys, silables with drawen fro the mydil, thei drijuen in to oon name; or a3einward, for[m] the brede, thei deuyden[n] in two or in[o] thre namys. Bot and thilk[p] nemenyngis, not[q] men, as many eymen, bot cytees, and regiouns, and wodis, and prouynces sownen; and aside, vndur the remenynge and the figure of hem, sum stories ben told, of the whiche in the boke of Kyngis[r] it is seyde, Loo! whether not thes ben writen in the bokis[s] of the wordis of the[t] days of kyngis[u] of Juda; the whiche forsothe in oure bokis ben not had. This first is to wyten, that anentis the Ebruys Paralipomenon be a boke, and anentis hem be elepid Dabregemyn, that is, the wordis of days; the whiche for mychilnesse anentis us is deuydid. The whiche thing sum men also in the Brute, dialog[v] of Citheron, don, that it[w] in thre parties thei deuyden, whanne oon of his[x] autour it be maad. CAP. V.

1 Salomon thanne brou3te in alle thingis, that Dauid, his fadir, hadde vowed; syluer, and gold, and al the vessels, he putte in the tresores of the hous of the Lord.
2 After the[a] whiche thingis he gadride the more thoru3 birthe of Irael, and al the princis of lynagis, and the heuedis of meynes, of the sonys of Yrael, in to Jerusalem, that thei bryngin the ark of the pese couenaunt of the Lord fro the cyte 3 of Dauid, that is Syon. And so camen to the kyng alle the men of Yrael, in the solempne day of the seuenth moneth.
4 And whanne weren commen alle of the elder of Yrael, the Leuytes beren the 5 arke, and brou3ten it in, and al the aray of the tabernacle. Bot the vessels of the seyntuarye, that weren in the tabernacle, the prestis beeren with the Leuytis.
6 Kyng Salomon forsothe, and al the companye of Irael, and alle that weren gadered beforn the arke, offreden wethers and oxen with oute eny noumbre; so myche forsothe was the multitude of 7 slayn offryngus. And the prestis brou3ten in the arke of the pese couenaunt of the Lord in to his place, that is, to Goddis answerynge place of the temple, in to the holies of halowes, vndre the weengis of 28 ben sprungyn in wijld feeldis. Forsothe ther weren brou3t hors fro Egipt, and 29 of alle regyouns. The remnaunt forsothe of the rather werkis of Salamon and of the last ben wrijten in the wordis of Nathan, the prophete, and in the wordis of Achie Sylonyte, and in the visioun of Addo, sear, a3eins Jeroboam, the sone of 30 Nabath. Salamon forsothe regnede in Jerusalem vpon al Yrael fourety 3ere, and he slepte with his fadirs; and thei birieden hym in the cytee of Dauid, and Roboam, his sone, regued for hym.

CAP. X.

1 Roboam forsothe wente in to Sychem; thidre forsothe al Yrael was comen to 2 gydre that thei setten hym kyng. The whiche thing whan Jeroboam, the sone of Nabath, that was in Egypt, hadde

Thanne whanne Hieu schulde ouerturnen[g] the hous of Achab, he fonde the princis of Juda, and the sonus of the bretheren of Ochosie, that mynystreden to hym; and he slew3 hem. And hym Ochosie sechynge, he toke lurkyng in Samarie, and brou3t forth to hym he slew3; and thei birieden hym, forthi that he was the sone of Josaphath, the whiche hadde sou3te God in al his herte. And ther was no more eny hope, that eny schulde regnen of the stoc of Ochosie. Forsothe Athalia, his modir, seeynge that hire sone was deed, ros, and slew3 al the kingus stoc of the hous of Joram. Bot Josabeth, the dou3ter of the kyng, toke Joas, the sone of Ochosie, and sche staale hym fro the myddis of the sonus of the kyng, whanne thei schulde ben slayn; and sche hidde hym with his nursche in the bed place of lityl beddis. Josabeth forsothe, that hadde hydde hym, was the dou3ter of Lord, as[s] the hows of Achab; for thei[t] weren counselouris to hym[u] in to his perischyng[v], aftir the deth of his fadir; and[w] he 3ede in the counsele of hem. And he[x] 3ede with Joram, the sone of Achab, kyng of Israel, in to batel a3ens Azahel, kyng of Sirye, in to Ramoth of Galaad. And men of Sirie woundiden Joram; which[y] turnede a3en for to be heelid in Jezrahel; for he hadde take many woundis in the forseid batel. Therfor Ocozie, kyng of Juda, the sone of Joram, 3ede doun[z] to visite Joram, the[a] sone of Achab, sijk[b] in Jezrahel; for[c] it was Goddis wille a3ens Ocozie, that he cam to Joram. And whanne he was comun[d], he 3ede out with hym a3ens Hieu, the sone of Namsi, whom God anoyntide[e], that he schulde do awey the hows of Achab. Therfor whanne Hieu destriede the hows of Achab, he foond[f] the[g] princis of Juda, and the sones of the britheren of Ocozie, that[h] 'mynystriden to hym[i]; and he[k] killide hem. And he sou3te thilke Ocozie, and cau3te[l] him hid in Samarie, and after that he was brou3t to Hieu, Hieu killide hym; and thei birieden hym, for he was the sone of Josaphat, that hadde sou3t God in al his herte. And noon hope was more, that ony of the generacioun of Ocozie schulde regne. For[m] Athalia, his[n] modir[o], si3, that hir sone was deed, and sche roos[p], and killide alle the kyngis generacioun of the hows of Joram. Forsothe[q] Josabeth, the dou3ter of the[r] kyng[s], took Joas, the sone of Ocozie, and stal[t] hym fro the myddis of the sones of the kyng, whanne thei weren slayn; and sche hidde hym with his nurse in the[u] closet of beddis. Forsothe[v] Josabeth, that 'hadde hid[w] hym, was the[x] dou3tir of kyng Joram, and wijf of Joiada, the bischop, and the sister of Ocozie; and therfor Athalia killide not of Ydumes, the brouȝt to goddis of the sonis of Seyr, he sette hem in to goddis to hym, and he honourede hem, and to 15 hem he brende ensence. For what thing the Lord wroth aȝeynst Amazie, he sente to hym a prophete, that schulde sey to hym, Why hast thou honourede goddis that han not delyuerde their puple fro 16 thin hond? And whanne these thingus he schulde speken, he answerde to hym, Whether ert thou the counseylere of the kyng? rest, lest perauenture I slee thee.

And so the prophete goynge aweye, I woote, he seith, that the Lord hath thouȝte to sleen thee; for thou hast don this yuel, and ferthermore thou hast not 17 assentide to my counseyle. Thanne Ama-zias, king of Juda, the werst counseil gon in, sente to Joas, the sone of Joachas, sone of Hieu, the king of Irael, seyinge, Cum, may ȝelde to thee myche[k] mo thingis than these. Therfor Amasie departide the 10 oost that cam to hym fro Effraym, that it schulde turne aȝen in to his place; and thei[l] weren wrooth greetli aȝens Juda, and turneden[m] aȝen in to her cuntrei. For- 11 sothe[n] Amasie ledde out tristili his puple, and ȝede[o] in to the valei of makyngis of salt, and he killide of the sones of Seir ten thousynde. And the sones of Juda 12 token othere ten thousynde of men, and brouȝten[p] to the hiȝ scarre of summe[q] hadde sent aȝen, that it schulde not go with him to batel, was spred abrood in the citees of Juda fro Samarie 'til to[z] Betheron; and aftir 'that it[a] hadde slayn thre thousynde[b], it took awey[c] a greet preie. And Amasie, after the sleyng of 14 Idumeis, and after that he hadde brouȝt[d] the goddis of the sones of Seir, ordeynede[e] hem 'in to[f] goddis to hym silf, and wor-schipide[g] hem, and brente encense to hem.

Wherfor the Lord was wrooth aȝens Ama- 15 sie, and sente[h] to hym a profete, that seide to hym, Whi worschipist thou goddis that[i] 'delyueriden not[k] her puple fro thin hond?
Whanne[l] the profete spak these thingis, 16
Amasie answeride to hym, Whether thou

CAP. XXVI.

1 Forsothe al the puple of Juda his sone, Osie, of sexteen ȝeer, setten kyng for his
2 fadir Amazie. He bild up Aylath, and restored it to the lordschip of Juda, aftir 3 that the kyng slepte with his fadirs. Of sexteen ȝeer Osias was, whanne he hadde begunne to regnen; and two and fyfty ȝeer he regned in Jerusalem; name of his 4 modre, Yechelya, of Jerusalem. And he dide that was riȝt in the siȝt of the Lord, aftir alle thingus that Amazias, his fader,
5 hadde done. And he souȝte the Lord in the days of Zacharie, vndirstondinge and seeing God; and whanne he schuld sechen 6 God, he louede hym in alle thingus. Aftirward he wente out, and fauȝte aȝeinus Philisteis, and he[c] distruyede the wall of Geth, and the wall of Jabnye, and the wal of Azoty; and he bilde up burȝ rede to wrath the Lord God of their 26 fadirs. The remnaunt forsothe of his wordis and of alle his werkes, of the rather and of the last, ben writen in the boke of the kyngis of Juda and of Irael.

27 And Achaz slepte with his[m] fadirs, and thei birieden hym in the cyte of Dauid of Jerusalem; ne forsothe thei receyueden hym in the sepulcres of the kingus of Irael; and Ezechias, his sone, regnede for hym.

CAP. XXIX.

1 Ezechias thanne beganne to regnen, whanne he was of fyue and twenty 3eer, and nyne and twenty 3eer he regnede in Jerusalem; name of his modir, Abia, the 2 dou3ter of Zacharye. And he dide that was plesaunt in the si3t of the Lord, aftir alle thingus that Dauid, his fadir, hadde
3 done. In that 3eer and the first moneth of his regne he opnede the 3ate leues of the hous of the Lord, and he enstorede 4 hem; and brou3te to the prestis and the Leuytis, and gaderede hem in to the 5 este strete, and seide to hem, Heerith me, Leuytis, and beth halowed; clensith the hous of the Lord God of oure faders, and doth awey alle vnclennesse fro the

I. ESDRAS.

[Prologue on the First book of Esdras[a].]

THIS firste book of Esdre, whiche was a wurthi man among Jewis, and writer of the lawe of God, tellith, that Cyrus, the king of Persis, stirid by the Spirit of God, ordeynde Esdre, the scryuein, ledere to al the peple of Juda, that was translatid in to Babiloyne, to bringe hem aȝen in to her lond, with alle the vessels that weren of the hous of the Lord, and ȝaf gold and siluer in greet plente, to make sacrifise to the Lord in Jerusalem.

[Prologue to the books of Esdras[a].]

WHETHER it be hardere to do that ȝee asken, or to denyen, I haue not ȝyt demed; for nouther to ȝou any thing comaundende is of sentence to forsaken, and the gretnesse of charge put vpon oure nollis bereth doun, that rathere it be to fallen doun vndir the berthene, than to reren. The studies of enuyouse men neȝhen to this, that alle thing that we wryten, weenen repref wrthi, and other while concience repugnende aȝen hemself, opinli thei to-tern that thei reden priueli; in so myche that I am constreyned to crieu, and sein, Lord, deliuere my soule fro wicke[b] lippis, and fro a trecherous tunge. The thridde ȝer is that euer mor ȝee wrijten and aȝeen wrijten, that the boc of Esdre and Ester I translate[c] to ȝou fro Ebrue, as thof[d] ȝee han not Grekis[e] and[f] Latyness[g] volumus, or what euere thing that is that of vs is turned, not anon of alle men it be to be dispisid. In vein forsothe, as seith sum man, to enforcen, ne[h] other thing in trauailing sechen[i] but hate, is of vttermost wodnesse. And so, I beseche ȝou, my derworthest Domynyon and Rogacian, that ȝe apaȝed bi priuat lessoun, ber not out the bokisin to comun, lest ȝee profre metis to vggli men; and eschewe ȝee the pride of hem, that onli to demen of othere, and thei themselue knewen no thing to do. If any forsothe of brethern ben, to whom ouren displesen not, to them ȝiueth a saumpler, amonestende that the Ebrue namus, of the whiche in this volume is gret plente, distinctli and bi spacis thei transcryue; forsothe no thing it profitide to han amendid bokis, but the amending be kept bi diligence of writeris. Ne any man moue it, that o boc is maad of vs, ne delite he in the sweuenes of the writen thingus withoute autorite of the thridde and of the ferthe boc; for and anentis the Ebrues the woordis of Esdre and of Noemye in o volume ben togidere drawen, and thoo thingus that ben not had anentis hem, ne ben not[k] of the foure and twenti olde men, ben worthi to be cast awei aferr. If any man forsothe aȝen legge to vs the seuenti remenoures, of whom the saumpleris the diuersete shewith hem to-torn and turned vpsodoun, ne forsothe it mai not ben afermed soth that that is diuers, sendeth hym to the euangelies, in the whiche many thingus ben put of the olde testament, the[l] whiche anent the seuenti remenoures ben not had, as that, For Nazare he shal ben clepid; and, Fro Egipt I clepede my sone; and, They shul seen in whom thei pungeden; and manye othere thingus, the whiche we reseruen to a braddere werc; and asketh of hym, where thei ben writen; and whan thei schul not moun tellen, rede ȝee of thoo saumpleris, the whiche, sum time maad of vs, ben stikid eche dai with the tungus of euele spekeris. But that to short tretee I come; certis that I 'am to concluden[m] is most riȝtwis; haue I maad any thing that is not had in Greec, or that otherwise is had than off me is turned? Wherto the remenour thei to-tern? Aske thei the Ebrues, and bi thoo[n] autouris, to my translacioun or ȝiue thei feith or withdrawe. Certis another is, for thei wiln myssein to me, that it[o] is seid, with closid eȝen, and thei folewen not the studie and the weel willing of Greekis, the whiche aftir the seuenty remenoures, now shinende the euangelie of Crist, and curiousli reden Jewis and Hebionytis, remenoures of the olde lawe, Aquilam, that is, Symachum[p], and Theodocian, and bi the trauaile of Origenes thei halewiden to[q] chirchis in sixe maner translaciouns. Myche more Latin men aȝten to be kinde, that thei beholden Grece gladende of hem any thing to borewen. The firste forsothe is of gret costis and of difficulte withoute ende, to moun han alle the exsaumpleris; also theraftir thei that han, and ben vnkunnende of Ebrue speche, more shuln erren, vnknowende who of manye trewliere seith. The whiche also fel sum time to a most wis man amongis the Grekis, that otherwhile leuende the sens[r] of scripture he folewide the errour of eche remenour. Wee forsothe that[s] nameli of Ebru tunge han a litil kunnyng, and Latin speche ȝit hider to failith not to vs, that of othere more we moun demen, and thoo thingus that wee vsself[t] vnderstonden, in oure owne tunge shewin. And so thof the serpentt hisse and the ouercomere if he throwe not brennyngus vp, neuer my speche shal be stille, Crist helpende; also the tunge kut of it shal blaberen. Rede thei that wiln; that wiln not, caste thei awei. And serche thei out the letteris, and falsli acuse thei the lettris; more bi ȝoure charite I shal ben stirid to studie, than I shal ben agast bi the hate and the[u] bachiting of hem.

this deede of Josie, Farao, king of Egipt, steȝede vp, comende to casten awei in Carcamys vpon Eufraten; and Josias 26 wente in to meeting to hym. And the king of Egipt sente to Josiam, seiende, What is to me and to thee, king of Jude?
27 I am not sent of the Lord, vpon Eufraten forsothe is mi bataile; heeȝende go doun.
28 And Josias is not turned aȝeen vp on the char, but enforcide to ouercomyn hym, not takende heede to the woord of the 29 profete, of the mouth of the Lord; but he sette to hym bataile in the feld of Mecedan; and princis descendeden to 30 king Josiam. And the king seide to his childer, Moueth me awei fro the bataile; forsothe I am gretli maad sijk. And anoon his childre moueden hym awei fro the 31 sheltrun. And he steȝede vp vpon his secunde[e] char; and comende to Jerusalem, diede, and is biried in the fader se-32 pulcre. And in al Jude thei weileden Josie, and thei that befor seten with wiues, weilede hym vnto this dai; and this is ȝiue to be don euermor in to al 33 the kinrede of Irael. These thingus for-sothe ben beforn writen in the boc of stories of kingus of Juda, and `in to[f] alle iestis, the deede of Josie, the glorie of hym, and his vnderstonding in the lawe of God; for euenli ben don of hym, and thoo thingus that ben not writen in the 34 boc of kingus of Irael and of Juda. And thei that weren of the kinrede, takende Jechoniam, the sone of Josie, setten king for Josie, his fadir, whan he was of thre 35 and thretti ȝer. And he regnede vp on Irael thre monethis; and the king of Egipt putte hym awei, that he regne not 36 in Jerusalem. And he pilde[g] the folc of an hundrid talentus of siluer, and a talent 37 of gold. And the king of Egipt sette Joachym, his brother, king of Jude and 38 of Jerusalem; and he bond the maister iugis of Joachim; Saracel, his brother, 39 takende, he broȝte aȝeen to Egipt. Joahim ben writen, in the rathere tynies of hem that synnyden, and the whiche weren vnreligious aȝen the Lord, bifore or more than al hethen folk, and the whiche synners souȝten not the wordis of the Lord upon Israel. And aftir al this deede of 25 Josie, Pharao, king of Egipt, ȝede up, comynge to casten awey in Carcamys upon Eufraten; and Josias wente in to metyng to him. And the king of Egipt sente to 26 Josiam, seiynge, What is to me and to thee, kyng of Jude? I am not sent of the 27 Lord, upon Eufraten forsothe is my bataile; hastily therfor go doun. And Jo- 28 sias was not turned aȝen upon the chare, but he enforside him self to ouercome Pharao, not takinge hede to the word of the prophet, fro the mouth of the Lord; but he sette to him bataile in the feeld of 29 Mecedan; and princis camen doun to kyng Josiam. And thanne the king seide to his 30 children, or seruauntes, Moueth me awey fro the bataile; forsothe I am gretly maad sijk. And anoon his children moueden him awey fro the scheltrun. And he 31 stiede upon his secoundarie chare; and comynge to Jerusalem, he diede, and was biried in his fadris sepulcre. And in al 32 Jude thei biweiliden Josie, and thei that bifore seten with wyues, weiliden him vnto this day; and this is grauntid to be don euer more in al the kynrede of Israel.

Thes thingis forsothe ben writen in the 33 book of stories of kyngis of Juda, and the glorie of Josie, and his vndirstonding in the lawe of God, bi alle dedes of the doyng of him; for euenly tho weren don of hym, and the whiche ben not writun in the

And kyng Cirus brouȝte 10 forth the sacrid vessels of the Lord, the whiche Nabugodonosor translatide fro Jerusalem, and sacride hem in his mawmett. And Cirus, king of Persis, bryngynge hem 11 forth, toke tho to Mitridate, that was upon the tresours of him. Forsothe bi him thei 12 ben taken to Salmanasar, gouernour of Jude. Of thes thinges forsothe this is 13 the noumbre; silueren halewid vessels of licours, two thousynd and foure hundrid; thritti silueren drinkynge vessels; thritty goldene violes; and two thousynd and foure hundrid silueren violes; and a thousynd othere vessels. Forsothe alle the golden 14 and silueren vessels weren foure thousynd and foure hundrid and eiȝt and sixty. And 15 thei ben delyuered out to Salmanasar, togidere with hem, that weren comen in to Jerusalem of the caytiftee or thraldom of Babiloyne. Forsothe in the tyme of Ar- 16 taxerses, kyng of Persis, ther wreten to him, of thes that dwelliden in Judee and in Jerusalem, Balsamus, and Mitridatus, and Sabelius, and Ratymus, Baltheneus, and Samelius, the scribe, and othere dwellinge in Samarie, and in othere placis, thei writen this subiect lettre to the kyng Artaxersy. Lord, thi children, Ratymus, 17 and Sabelius, the scribe, and othere domes men of thi court, of thingis that fallen in Coelem Siriem, and Fenycen. And now 18 be it knowen to the lord the kyng, that Jewis, the whiche stieden up fro ȝou to us, comynge in to Jerusalem, a citee of fleers awei, and a ful yuel citee, thei bilden up the ouenes of it, and thei setten the wallis, and reren the temple. That if this 19 citee and wallis weren maad up, thei shul not suffre to ȝelde tributis, but also thei shul aȝenstonde to kyngis. seme, O[v]! thee[w] king, be it so3t in the[x] 22 bokis of thi fadris; and thou shalt finde in the remembrauncis writen of hem, and thou shalt knowen, for that cite was a3een floun, and kingis and cites smitende 23 togidere, and Jewis a3een fleende, and makende batailis in it fro euermor; for 24 what cause this cite is desert. Now thanne knowen we maken, lord[y] king[z], for if this cite were bild vp, and of this the wallis weren rerid[a], comyng doun shal not be to thee in to Coelem Ciriem
25 and Fenicem. Thanne the king wrot a3ee to Ratinum, that wrot the fallende thingus, and to Bellumym, and to Sabellio, scribe, and to othire ordeined, and dwellers in Cirie and Fenyce, thoo thingus 26 that ben sett vnder. I ha[b] rad the lettre[c], that thou sentist to me. Thanne[d] I comaundide to be so3t; and it is founde, for that cite is fro alwei withstondende 27 to kingus, and the men a3een fugitif, and batailis in it makende; and most stronge kingus han ben in Jerusalem lordshipende, and tributus askende of Cele Cirie and makinge bateilis in it alwey; for the whiche cause this citee was forsake. Now 24 therfor we maken knowen to the lord king, that if this citee were bild up, and the wallis of it weren arerid, ther schal be no comyng doun to thee in to Choelem Cyriem and Fenycen. Thanne the kyng 25 wroot a3en to Ratimym, that wroot tho thingis that bifellen, and to Bellumym, and to Sabellio, the scribe, and to othere ordeyned souereyns, and dwellinge in Cirye and in Fenyce, he wrot to hem thes thingis that ben sett vndir. I haue rad 26 the lettre, that thou sentist to me. Therfor I comaundide it to be sou3t; and it was founden, that thilke citee was alwey withstondynge to kyngis, and men a3en fugi- 27 tijf, and makynge bateilis in it; and moost stronge kingis han ben lordschipinge in Jerusalem, and askinge tributis of Chole Cirie and Fenycem. Now therfore I co- 28 maunde to forfende tho men to bilde up the citee, and to loke, that ony thing be not maad her aftir; but that thei passe 29 not in to ful myche, sith thei ben of malice, so that greuauncis be not brou3t ther to kinges.

wrot, The kyng is strenger. The thridde 12 wrot, Wymmen ben strengiste; treuthe ouercomith forsothe ouer alle thingis. And 13 whanne the kyng had resen up, thei token her thingis writen, and 3ouen tho to him, and he radde. And he sende and clepede 14 alle the maistre iuges of Persis, and of the lond Medis, and the clothid men in purpre, and the rewlers of prouynces, and prefectis; and thei seten in counsel, and 15 the writingis weren red bifore hem. And 16 the kyng seide, Clepeth the 3ounge men, and thei schul schewe her wordis. And seid of the strengthe of win, began, and seide, Men! hou miche win is passende strong; to alle men that drinken it it berth doun the mynde; also of king and of faderles child it maketh the minde vein; also of seruaunt and of freman, of pore and of riche; and alle minde it[n] turneth in to sikyrnesse, and in to gladnesse; and it remembreth not of[o] any sorewe and dette; and alle the entrailis it makith onest; and it remembrith not king, ne maister iuge; and alle thingis bi talent it maketh to speke; and thei remembre not, whan thei han drunke, frendshipe ne brotherhed, and after not miche thei taken swerdis; and whan of win thei drownyn, and rijsen, thei han no mynde that thei diden. O men! whether win is not passendeli strong, that thus constreineth to do? And this seid, he held his pes.

CAP. IV.

And the folewere began to sein, that seith of the strengthe of king, O men! whether men ben not passendely strong, that erthe and se holden, and alle thingus that in hem ben? The king forsothe ouer alle thingus passith, and hath lordshipe of hem, and alle thing, what euere he shal sei to them, thei don. And if[p] he sende hem to fiȝteres, thei gon, and destroȝen hillis, and wallis, and touris; thei ben slain, and slen, and the woord of the king thei passe not; for if thei ouercomen, thei bringe to the king alle thingus, whateuere thingus thei han spoilid euermor, and alle othere thingus. And[q] hou fele euere bern not[r] kniȝthod, ne fiȝten, but eren the lond, eftsone whan thei weren repende, thei bringe tributus to the king. And he oon alone; and if he seie to slen, thei slen; and if he seie to forȝiuen, thei forȝiuen; and if he seie to thei weren clepid, and thei camen yn. And Darius seide to hem, Schewe ȝe to us of thes thingis that ben writen. And the firste, that had seid of the strengthe of wyn, he biganne, and seide to hem, Men! ful passynge strong is wyn; to alle men that drynken it it berith doun the mynde; also it makith the mynde veyn, bothe of kyng and of the fadirles child; also of seruaunt and of fre men, of pore and of riche; and it turnith al the mynde in to sikirnesse, and to gladnesse; and it remembrith not ony serewe and dette; and it makith alle the entrailes honest; and it remembrith not kyng, ne maistir iuge; and alle thingis it makith speke bi talent; and whanne thei han drunken, thei remembren not frendschip ne brotherhed, and not longe aftir thei taken swerdis; and whanne thei han be drowned of wyn, and rijsen, thei han no mynde what thinges thei diden. O men! whether wyn is not passyngly strong, that thus constreynith men to do? And this thing seid, he hilde his pes.

CAP. IV.

And the nexte folewer biganne to sey, that seide of the strengthe of a kyng, O men! whether men ben not passyngly stronge, the whiche holden loond and see, and alle thingis that ben in hem? The kyng forsothe passith aboue alle thingis, and he hath lordschip of hem, and thei don al thing, what euer he wil sey to hem. And if he sende hem to fiȝters, thei gon, and destroyen hillis, and walles, and toures; thei ben sleyn, and slen, and thei passen not the word of the kyng; for if thei ouercomen, thei bryngen to the king alle thingis, what euer thingis thei han spoiled euermore, and all othere thingis. And hou fele euer beren not knyȝthod, ne fiȝten, but eren the loond, eftsone whanne thei schul repe, thei bringen tributis to the king. And he is oon aloone; and if he bidde to sle, thei sleen; and if he bidde hem to forȝiue, thei forȝiuen; and if he smyten, thei smite; if he seie to outlawen, thei outlawen; if he seie to bilden, 9 thei bilden; if he seie to fallen[s] of, thei fallen[s] of; if he seie to plaunten, thei

10 plaunten; and alle folc and vertues hym obeshen; and ouer these[t] thingus he shal 11 sitte, and drinke, and slepen. These forsothe in enuyroun kepen hym, and moun not go eche, and do ther werkis, but and in woord men ben obeshende to 12 hym. What maner wise the king passeth not befor, that thus is losid[u]? And 13 he heeld his pes. The thridde, that hadde seid of wymmen, and of treuthe; 14 this is Sorobabel; began to speke, Men! not gret the king, and manie men, ne win passeth beforn; who is thanne that hath 15 lordshipe of hem? Whether not wymmen geete[uu] king, and al the puple, that lordshipe to the se, and to[v] the erthe, and of 16 hem ben born? And thei broȝten forth hem that plaunteden vines, of the whiche 17 win is maad. And thei maken the stolis of alle men, and thei don glorie to men, and men moun not ben seuered fro wym-18 men. If thei gedere togidere gold and seluer, and alle fair thing, and seen a womman in good abite, and in good fair-19 nesse, alle these thingis forsakende, in to hir thei taken heede, and the mouth opened, beholden, and[w] hir drawen[x] to more than gold or[y] siluer, or any precious 20 thing[yy]. A man hys fader shal forsaken, that nurshide hym, and his regioun, and 21 to a womman ioyneth togidere, and with a womman leueth the lif, and nouther fader remembreth, ne moder, ne regioun.
22 And therfore it behoueth vs to knowen, for wymmen han lordshipe of vs. Whe-23 ther sorewe ȝee not? And a man take his swerd, and goth in the weie to do theftis, and manslaȝteris[z], and to seilen 24 ouer the se and flodis; and a leoun[a] he seeth, and in dercnesse[b] he goth in; and whan he hath don thefte, and gilis, and 25 raueines, he bringeth to his leef. And eft a man looueth his wif mor than fader sey hem to smyten, thei smyten; if he sey to outlawe, thei outlawen; if he bidde hem to bilden, thei bilden; if he bidde to 9 folk and vertues obeishen to him; and ouer alle thes thingis he schal sitte, and drynke, and slepe. Thes forsothe kepen him 11 aboute, and moun not gon echoon, and do her owne werkis, but in his word men obeishen to him. What maner wise pass- 12 ith not the kyng bifore oothere, that thus is loosid? And he helde his pes. The 13 thridde, that had seid of wymmen, and of treuthe; this is seid Sorobabel; he biganne to speke, O men! the kyng is not 14 greet, neither many othere men, ne wyn passith biforn; who is it thanne that hath lordschip of hem? Whether not wymmen, 15 that han goten kyngis, and al the peple, the whiche kingis han lordschip bothe of see and of loond, and of wymmen thei ben born? And thei brouȝten forth hem that 16 plauntiden vynes, of the whiche wyn is maad. And thei maken the stoles, or 17 longe clothis, of alle men, and thei don glorie to men, and men moun not be seuered fro wymmen. If thei gedere togidere 18 gold and siluer, and al fair thing, and seen a womman in good aray, and in good fairnesse, thei, forsakynge alle thes thingis, 19 taken heede to here, and the mouth opened, thei biholden hir, and thei drawen more to hir than to gold and siluer, or ony precious thing. A man schal forsake 20 his fadir, that norishide him, and his owne loond, and to a womman he ioyneth him togidre, and with a womman he 21 lyuith his lijf, and noither remembrith fadir, ne modir, ne the lond of his birthe. And therfor it bihouith us to knowen, that 22 wymmen han lordschip of us. Whether ȝe serewen not? And also a man takith 23 his swerd, and goth in the wey to don theftis, and man slauȝtris, and to seilen ouer the see, and ouer flodes; and he 24 seeth a lioun, and he goth in derkenessis; maade for ther wiues, and thrallis ben 27 made for hem; and manie pershiden, and ben stranglid, and synneden for wymmen.

28 And now leeueth to[c] me; for gret is the king in his power, for alle regiouns[d] ben 29 aferd to touchen hym. I saȝ ner the latere Apemen, the doȝter of wndirful man Besacis, the secundarie wif of the king, sittende biside the king at the riȝt side; 30 and takende awei the diademe fro his hed, and puttende on to hirself[e], and with the hondis she smot the king of[f] the lift 31 hond. And ouer these thingus, the mouth opened, he beheeld hir, and if she loowe to hym, he looȝ[g], and if she were wroth to hym, he glosith, to the time that he be 32 recounsilid 'in to[h] grace. O men! whi ben not wymmen strengere? Gret is the erthe, and heeȝ is heuene, that these 33 thingus don. And thanne the king and the purprid men beheelden either in to other; and he[i] began to speken of 34 treuthe. O men! whether stronge ben not wymmen? Gret is the erthe, and heȝ is heuene, and swift is the cours of the sunne; it is turned in the cumpas of heuene, and eft it renneth aȝeen in to the 35 same place o dai. Whether not a gret doere is he, that maketh these thingus?
and treuthe gret, and strengere beforn 36 alle thingis? Al erthe treuthe inwardli clepeth, heuene also it blesseth, and alle werkus ben moued and dreden it; and ther is not with it any thing wicked[j].
37 Wicked[j] king, wicked[j] wymmen, and wicked[j] alle the sonis of men, and wicked[j] alle the werkis of hem, and ther is not in hem treuthe, and in ther wickednessis[k] 38 thei shuln pershen; and treuthe dwellith, and waxeth in to with oute ende, and liueth, and weldeth, in to worldis of 39 worldis. And to taken persones and differencis is not anent it; but thoo thingis that ben riȝtwis it doth, to alle vnriȝtwise and euele men; and alle men 40 ben maad benigne in his werkis. And and whanne he hath don his thefte, and gijles, and raueynes, he bringith it to his leef. And efte a man louith his wijf more 25 than fadir or modir; and many men ben 26 maad woode for their wyues, and many ben maad thrallis for hem; and many 27 perischiden, and weren stranglid, and many han synned for wymmen. And now leeu- 28 eth me; forsothe a kyng is greet, and his power, for alle regiouns, or kingdoms aboute, ben aferd to touche him. I sawȝe 29 neuer the latter Apeemen, the douȝter of Besacis, the wondirful man, the secoundarie wijf of the kyng, sittynge biside the kyng at the riȝt side; and takynge awey 30 the diademe fro his heed, and puttynge it on hir self, and with the pawme of hir lift hoond she smote the kyng. And ouer 31 thes thingis, the mouth opened, he bihilde hir, and if sche lowȝe to him, he lowȝe, and if sche were wrooth to him, he glosith or plesith, vnto the tyme that he be recounsilid to grace. O men! whi ben not 32 wymmen strengist? Greet is the erthe, and heuen is hiȝ, that don thes thingis.
Thanne the kyng and the purpred men 33 bihelden either in to oothere; and he biganne to speke of treuthe. O men! wher 34 wymmen ben not stronge? Greet is the eerthe, and heuen is hiȝ, and the cours of the sunne is swift; it is turned in the cumpas of heuen, and eft it renneth aȝen in to the same place in a day. Wher he 35 is not a greet doer, that makith thes thingis? and treuthe greet, and strenger biforn alle thingis? All erthe clepith in- 36 wardly trouthe, also it blessith heuene, and alle werkis ben moued and dreden it;
and ther is no wickid thing with it.
Wickid kyng, and wickid wymmen, and 37 alle the sones of men ben wickid, and ther is not treuthe in hem, and in her wickidnesse thei schul perische; and treuthe 38 dwellith, and wexith in to withouten ende, and it lyuith, and weldith, into worldus of worldis. It is not anentis treuthe to out- 39 ther is not in his dom wickednesse[k], but strengthe, and reume, and power, and mageste of alle duringis aboue time.

41 Blessid be the God of treuthe! And he lafte in speking. And alle puplis crieden, and seiden, Gret is treuthe, and beforn 42 passeth. Thanne the king seith to hym, Aske, if any thing thou wilt more ouer, than ther ben[l] writen, and I shal ȝiue to thee, aftir that thou art founde wisere; and next to[m] me thou shalt sitte, and my 43 cosin thou shalt be clepid. Thanne he seith to the king, Be thou myndeful of the vou, that thou vouwidist, to bilde[n] Jerusalem, in the dai that[o] thou toke the 44 reume; and alle the vesselis, that ben taken of Jerusalem, to senden aȝeen, the whiche Cirus seuerede, whan he sloȝ Babiloine, and wolde senden aȝeen thoo 45 thingus thider. And thou woldist bilden vp the temple, that Idumeis brenden vp[p], for Jude is put out of termes fro Caldeis.
46 And now this is that I aske, lord, and that I bidde; this is maieste that of thee I aske, that thou do the vou, that thou vouwedist to the king of heuene, of thi 47 mouth. Thanne Darie, the king, risende kiste hym, and wrot epistolis to alle the dispensatouris, and prefectis, and purprid men, that thei shulden leden hym forth, and hem that with hym weren, alle steȝ-48 ende vp to bilde Jerusalem. And to alle the prefectis that weren in Cirie, and[q] Fenice, and Liban, he wrot epistolis, that thei shulden drawe cedre trees fro Liban in to Jerusalem, that thei bilde vp with 49 hem the cite. And he wrot to alle the Jewis, that steȝeden vp fro the reume in Jude, for fredam, alle myȝti man, and maister iuge, and prefect, to not comen 50 ouer to the ȝatus of hem, and eche regioun, that thei hadden weldid, to be free fro hem; and Idumeis laften the castelis, 51 that thei weldeden of the Jewis, and in to the making of the temple to[r] ȝiue bi ȝeris twenti talentis, vnto the time that 52 it be ful bildid; and to offren ostis eche tho thingis that ben riȝtful, to alle vnriȝtwise and yuel men; and alle men ben maad benyngne in his werkis. And ther 40 is not wickidnesse in his doom, but ther is strengthe, and rewme, and power, and magestee of alle duryngis aboue tyme. Blessid be the God of treuthe! And 41 thanne he lefte in spekynge. And alle the peplis crieden, and seiden, Greet is treuthe, and it passith bifore alle othere. Thanne the kyng seide to him, Aske, if 42 thou wilt, ony thing more ouer, than ther ben writen, and I schal ȝiue to thee, aftir that thou art founden wiser; and next to me thou schalt sitte, and thou schalt be clepid my cosyn. Thanne seide he to the 43 king, Be thou myndeful of the vowȝ, that thou vowidist, to bilden up Jerusalem, in the day in whiche thou toke the rewme; and to senden aȝen alle the vessels, that 44 ben taken fro Jerusalem, the whiche Cyrus departide, whanne he slouȝ Babiloyne, and wolde sende aȝen thoo thingis thidere. And thou woldist bilde up the temple, that 45 Ydumes brenden, for Judee is put out of her termes, or marchis, of the Caldeis. And now, lord, this it is that I aske, and 46 that I bidde; this is the mageste that I aske of thee, that thou do the vow that thou vowidist to the kyng of heuen, of thi mouth. Thanne Darius, the kyng, risynge 47 kisside him, and wroot epistlis to alle the dispensatours, and prefectis, and to men clothid in purpre, that thei schulden lede him forth, and hem that weren with him, alle wendynge up to bilde Jerusalem. And 48 to alle the prefectis that weren in Sirie, and Fenyce, and Liban, he wroot epistles, that thei schulden drawe cedre trees fro the hill Liban in to Jerusalem, that thei bilde up the citee with hem. And he 49 wroot to alle the Jewis, that steyden up fro the rewme in Judee, for fredam, that ony man of power, or maistir iuge, and prefect, schulden not come ouer to the ȝatis of hem, and eche regioun, that thei 50 hadden holde, to be fre fro hem; and that

53 fren bi alle ȝeris; and to alle men, that gon forth fro Babiloine, to make cite[s], as fredam were, bothe to hem, and to the sonus of hem, and to alle the prestis that 54 gon beforn. Forsothe he wrot and the quantite; and the sacrid stole he comaundede to be ȝiue, in the whiche thei 55 shulden serue; and to the Leuitis he wrot to ȝiue wagis, vnto the dai that the hous shulde be fulli endid, and Jerusalem 56 maad out; and to alle men kepende the cite he wrot, to ȝiue to hem lotis and 57 wagis. And he lafte alle the vesselis, that Cirus hadde seuered fro Babiloine; and alle thingis, whateuere Cirus seide, also he comaundede to be don, and to be 58 sent to Jerusalem. And whan that ȝunge man hadde go forth, rerende the face in to Jerusalem, he[ss] blesside the king of he-59 uene, and seide, Of thee is victorie, and of thee is wisdam, and clernesse, and I 60 am thy seruaunt. Blessid thou art, for thou hast ȝiue to me wisdam, and I knou-61 leche to thee, Lord of oure fadris. And he toc the epistolis, and wente forth in to Babiloine; and cam, and tolde to alle his 62 brethern that weren in Babiloine. And thei blesseden the God of ther fadris, that ȝaf to hem forȝiuenesse and refresh-63 ing, that thei steȝen vp, and bilde Jerusalem, and the temple, where is his name nemnyd in it; and thei ioȝeden ful out with musikis and gladnessys[t] seuene daȝes.

CAP. V.

1 Aftir these thingus forsothe ben chosen, that thei steȝen vp, the princis of tounus, bi housis, bi ther linagis, and the wiues of hem, and sones and doȝtris of hem, and seruauns and hand wymmen of hem,

Ydumeis leue up the castels of Jewis, that thei withholden, and to ȝiue ȝer bi ȝer 51 twenty talentis, in to making of the temple, vnto the tyme that it be ful bildid; and ech day to offre ostis upon the place 52 of sacrid thingis, as thei ben comaundid; to offre, bi alle ȝeris, othere ten talentis; and to alle men, that gon forth fro Babi- 53 loyne, to make the citee, as fredom were, bothe to hem, and to the sones of hem, and to the prestis that gon bifore. For- 54 sothe also he wroot the quantitee; and he comaundide the sacrid stole, or vestyment, to be ȝouen, in whiche thei schulden serue; and he wroot wagis to be ȝouen to the 55 dekens, vnto the day that the hous schulde be fully endid, and Jerusalem maad out; and he wrot to alle men kepinge the citee, 56 to ȝiue to the bilders lottis and wagis. And he lefte hem alle the vessels, that 57 Cirus had partid fro Babiloyn; and alle thingis, what euer Cyrus seide, he comaundide it to be don, and to be sent to Jerusalem. And whanne that ȝounge man 58 had gon forth, reisynge his face toward Jerusalem, he blesside the kyng of heuen, and seide, Of thee, Lord, is victorie, and 59 of thee is wisdom, and clernesse, and I am thi seruaunt. Thou art blessid, for thou 60 hast ȝouen to me wisdom, and I knowleche to thee, Lord of oure fadris. And 61 he toke the epistlis, or lettres, and wente forth in to Babiloyne; and he came, and tolde to alle his bretheren, that weren in Babyloyne. And thei blessiden the God of 62 her fadris, that ȝaf to hem forȝiuenesse and refreschyng, that thei schulden stye up, 63 and bilde Jerusalem, and the temple, where his name is nemned in it; and thei ioyeden with musikis and with gladnesse seuen daies.

Therfore forsothe wee askeden hem, that knowen wee myȝten make to thee the men, and the prouostis; and the writing of the namis of the prouostus wee askeden hem. And thei answerden to vs, seiende, We ben the seruauns of the Lord, that made heuene and erthe; and this hous was bild beforn these manie ȝeris of the king of Irael, gret, and most strong, and it is ful endid. And for oure fadris weren terrende and synneden[v] in the God of Irael, he[w] toc hem in to the hondus of Nabugodonosor, king of Babiloine, king of Caldeis; and this hous destroȝende brenden vp, and the puple caitif broȝten whanne ther weren niȝ to hem prophetis of the Lord, and helpiden hem. In that tyme came to hem Cysennes, the vndir litil kyng of Cirye and of Fenycis, and Satrabozanes, and her felawis. And thei seiden to hem, Who comaundide to ȝou, that ȝe bilden this hows, and this roof, and many othere thingis ȝe perfourmen? and who ben tho bilders, that bilden up thes thingis? And the eldre men of Israel hadden grace of the Lord, whanne the visitacioun of hem was maad upon hem that weren of the caitifte; and thei weren not lettid to bilden up, to the tyme that it were signified to Darij of alle thes thingis, and an answere were taken aȝen. This is the ensaumple of the lettre, that Cysennes, the vndir kyng of Cyrie and of Fenyces, and Satrobosanes, and her felawis, rewlers in Sirye and in Fenyce, senden to the king. To kyng Darye, gretyng. Alle thingis be thei knowen to the lord the kyng; forsothe whanne we camen in to the regioun of Judee, and wenten in to Jerusalem, we founden men bildynge a greet hous of God, and a temple of gret polishid stones, and of precious maters in the wallis; and tho werkis besily in makynge, and to help, and to make welsum in the hondis of hem, and in al glorie, ful diligently to be perfourmyd. Thanne we askiden the eldre men, seiynge, Who suffride ȝou to bilde this hous, and to bilde thes werkis? Therfor forsothe we askiden hem, that we myȝten make knowen to thee the men, and the prouostis, or reuys; and we askiden hem the writyng of the names of the maistris of the werk. And thei answeriden to vs, seiynge, We ben seruauntis of the Lord, that made bothe heuen and erthe; and this hous was bild bifore thes many ȝeris of the kyng of Israel, that was greet, and a ful strong kyng, and it was destried aȝen. And for oure fadris terriden and synneden aȝen God of Israel, he bitook hem in to the hondis of Nabugodonosor, kyng of Babiloyne, kyng of Caldeis; and thei destrieden and brenden up this hous,

17 in to Babiloyne. In the firste ȝer regnende Ciro, king of Babiloine, king Cirus 18 wrot to bilden vp this hous; and thoo[x] holi goldene vesselis and siluerene, that Nabugodonosor hadde born awei fro the hous, that is in Jerusalem, and hadde sacrid hem in his temple, eft king Cirus broȝte them forth fro the temple that was in Babiloyne, and ben take to Sorobabel, and to Salmanasar, vndir litil king.
19 And it is comaundid to hem, that thei offren these vesselis, and lein vp in the temple, that was in Jerusalem, and that temple of God to bilden vp in that place.
20 Thanne Salmanasar vnder leide the foundemens of the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem; and fro thennus vn to now 21 is bild vp, and toc no ful ending. Now thanne, if it is demed of thee, O king! be it parfitli soȝt in the kingis libraries of 22 king Ciri, that ben in Babiloine; and if it were founden in the counseil of king Ciri, to ben begunne the making of the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem, and it shal be shewid of the lord oure king, wrijte he of these thingus to vs.
23 Thanne king Darie comaundede to ben inwardli soȝt in the librarijs; and ther is founde in Egbatenis, burȝtoun, that is in the myddel regioun, o place, in the 24 whiche weren writen these thingus. The firste ȝer regnende Ciro king, Cirus comaundede the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem, to bilden vp, where thei 25 brenden with[y] contynuel fijr; whos heiȝte is maad of ten cubitis, and breede of fourti cubitus, squarid with thre polisht stonus, and with soleer tree of the same regioun, and with oon newe soleer; and costus to be ȝiuen of the hous of king 26 Cirus; and the holi vesselis of the hous of the Lord, both goldene and siluerene, that Nabugodonosor bar awei, that thei be put thider in to[z] the hous, that is in 27 Jerusalem, where thei weren put. And he comaundede besinesse to don Cisennem, vnder litil king of Cirie and Fenice, and Satrabusanam, and his felawis, and thei brouȝten the peple maad thral in to Babiloyne. In the first ȝeer regnynge 17 Cyro, kyng of Babiloyne, kyng Cyrus wroot to bilden up this hous; and tho 18 hooly golden vessels and silueren, that Nabugodonosor had born awey fro the hous of God, that is in Jerusalem, and had sacrid hem in his temple, efte kyng Cyrus brouȝte hem forth fro the temple that was in Babiloyn, and thei weren bitake to Sorobabel, and to Salmanasar, the vndir litil kyng. And it was comaundid 19 to hem, that thei offre thes vessels, and thei schulde ley hem up in the temple, that was in Jerusalem, and to bilde up that temple of God in that place. Thanne 20 Salmanasar vndirleide the foundementis of the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem; and fro thennes vn to now is a bildynge, and hath take no ful endyng. Now thanne, 21
O kyng! if it is demed of thee, that it be perfitly souȝt in the kyngis libraries of kyng Cyry, that ben in Babiloyne; and if 22 it were founden in the counseil of kyng Ciry, the makyng of the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem, to be bigunnen, and if it schal be schewid of the lord oure kyng, write he to vs of thes thingis. Thanne kyng Darie comaundid to ben 23 ynwardly souȝt in the libraries; and ther was founden in Egbathanys, a borouȝ town, that is in the myddil regioun, a place, in the whiche weren wreten thes thingis. The firste ȝer regnynge Cyro 24 kyng, Cyrus comaundide to bilden up the hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem, where thei brenden with contynuel fijr; whos heiȝt was maad of lx. cubitis, and 25

29 be ful endid; and of the trauaile of the tributus of Cirie Choeles and Fenices diligentli a quantite to be ȝiue to these men, to the sacrifise of the Lord, to Sorobabel, prefect, to bolis, and wetheris, and 30 lambis; also forsothe and whete, and salt, and win, and oile, besili bi alle ȝeris, as the prestus, that ben in Jerusalem, ordeineden to be fulfild eche dai, with oute 31 any delai; that ther ben offrid offringus of likourus to the heiȝeste God, for the king, and his childer, and preȝe for the 32 lif of hem. And be it denounsid, that whoso euere ouer passen[a] any thing of these thingus that ben writen, or despisen, be ther taken a tree of ther own proper, and be thei hangid, and the goodis 33 of hem to the king be eschetid. Therfore and the Lord, whos name is inwardli clepid there, outlawe eche king and folc, that strecchen out ther hond to forfenden, or to euele treten that hous of the Lord, 34 that is in Jerusalem. I, king Darie, haue maad a decre, to be don as most diligentli aftir these thingis.

CAP. VII.

1 Thanne Cisennes, vnder litil king of Choelem Cirie and Fenicem, and Satrabusanes, and the felawis, obesheden to these thingus, that of king Darye weren 2 demed, stoden in to the holi werkis most diligentli, togidere werkende with the eldere men of Jewis, princis of Cirie.
3 And the sacrid holi werkis ben made welsum, profeciende Agge and Sacarie, 4 profetus. And alle thingus thei fulfilden, bi the heste of the Lord God of Irael, and of the counseil of Ciri, and of Darie, vndir litil kyng of Cyrie and Fenyce, and Satrabusanam, and his felawis, to do heȝ bisynesse, and thei that weren in Sirie and Fenyce ordeyneden rewlers, that thei schulden absteyne them fro the same place. And I also comaundide to make it up al, 28 and I lokide forth, that thei help them that ben of the caitiftee of Jewis, vnto the tyme that the temple of the hous of the Lord be full endid; and a quantitee to be 29 ȝouen diligently to these men of the traueile of the tributis of Sirye Choles and Fenyces, to the sacrifice of the Lord, to Sorobabel, the prefect, to bolis, and wetheris, and to lombis; also forsothe bothe 30 whete, and salt, wyn, and oile, bisily bi alle ȝeris, as the prestis, that ben in Jerusalem, ordeyneden to be fulfillid eche day, withoute ony delay; also that ther be 31 offrid offryngis of licours to the hiȝest God, for the kyng, and for his children, and preie thei for the lijf of hem. And 32 be it denounsid, that who so euer ouer passen ony thing of these thingis that ben wreten, outher despisen, be ther taken a tree of her owne, and be thei hangid theron, and her goodes be ethchetid to the kyng. Therfor also the Lord, whos 33 name is ynwardly clepid there, outlawe he eche kyng and folk, that strecchen out her hoond to offende, or to yuele trete that hous of the Lord, that is in Jerusalem. I, kyng Darie, haue maad a decree, 34 to be don as moost diligently after thes thingis.

CAP. VII.

Thanne Cysennes, the litil vndir kyng 1

5 and of Artaxerse, king of Persis. And oure hous is endyd, vnto the thre and twentithe dai of the moneth of March, 6 the sixte ȝer of king Darie. And the sonus of Irael diden, and the prestis, and Leuitus, and othere that weren of the caitifte, that ben set to, after thoo thingus that ben writen in the boc of Moises. 7 And thei offriden in to the dedicacioun of the temple of the Lord, bolis, an hundrid; wetheris, two hundrid; lambis, 8 foure hundrid; kidis for the synnes of al Irael, twelue, after the noumbre of the 9 linagis of Irael. And the prestus stoden, and Leuitus, clad[c] the stolis, bi the linagis, vpon the werc of the Lord God of Irael, after the boc of Moises; and vssheris bi 10 alle the ȝatis. And the sonus of Irael diden, with hem that weren of the caitifte, that pasch, the mone of the firste moneth, fourtene, whan ben halewid the 11 prestis and the Leuitus. And alle the sonus of caitifte ben not togidere halewid, for alle the Leuitus ben togidere halewid. 12 And thei offriden pasch to alle the sonus of caitifte, and to ther brethern, prestis, 13 and to hemself. And the sonus of Irael eeten, that weren in[d] the caitifte, alle that hadden laft fro alle the cursidnessis of the Jentilis of the erthe, sechende the 14 Lord; and thei haleweden the feste dai of therue loues, seuene daȝes etende in 15 the siȝte of the Lord; for he conuertide the counseil of the king of Assiris in hem, to coumforte the hondus of hem to the werkis of the Lord God of Irael.

1 And after this, regnende Artaxerse, king of Persis, wente to Esdras, the sone of Azarie, sone of Elchie, sone of Salome, 2 sone of Sadduch, sone of Achitob, sone of Ameri, sone of Azaei, sone of Bocce, sone of Abisae, sone of Finees, sone of Eleasar, sone of Aron, firste preest. 3 This Esdras steȝede vp fro Babiloine, whan he was scribe, and witti in the lawe of Moises, that is ȝiuen of the Lord 4 of Irael, to sein and to do. And the king ȝaf to hym glorie, that he hadde Darij, and of Artaxersis, kyng of Persis. And oure hous is endid, in the three and 5 twentithe dai of the monthe of Marche, in the sixte ȝeer of kyng Darij. And the 6 sones of Israel, and the prestis, and dekens, and othere that weren of the caitiftee, the whiche ben sett to, diden aftir thoo thingis that ben writen in the book of Moyses. And thei offreden in to the dedi- 7 catioun of the temple of the Lord, an hundrid bolis, two hundrid wetheris, foure hundrid lambren, twelue kides, for the 8 synnes of al Israel, after the noumbre of the xij. lynages of Israel. And the prestis 9 and dekens stoden, clothid with the stolis, bi her lynagis, upon the werkis of the Lord God of Israel, aftir the book of Moyses; and ther weren porters bi alle the ȝatis. And the sones of Israel diden 10 that pask, with hem that weren of the caitiftee, in the moone of the first monthe, the fourtenthe day, whanne the prestis and dekens ben halewid. And alle the 11 sones of caitiftee thei ben not halewid togidre, for alle the Leuytis ben halewid togidere. And thei offreden pask to alle 12 the sones of caitiftee, and to her bretheren, prestis, and to them selff. And the sonus 13 of Israel, the whiche weren of the caitiftee, alle thei that hadden left fro alle the cursidnessis of Gentiles, or hethen folk, of the eerthe, eeten, and souȝten the Lord; and thei halewiden the feest day of therff 14 looues, seuene daies etynge in siȝt of the Lord; for he conuertide the counseil of 15 the kyng of Assirijs in hem, to coumforte the hondis of hem to the werkis of the Lord God of Israel. And aftir this, while 1 Artaxerse, kyng of Persis, regnyde, ther wente to Esdras, a man that was the sone of Azarie, sone of Elchie, sone of Salome, sone of Sadduch, sone of Achitob, sone of 2 Amarie, sone of Aza, sone of Bocce, sone of Abisae, sone of Phynees, sone of Eleazar, sone of Aaron, the first preest. This 3 Esdras stiede up fro Babiloyne, whanne he was scribe, and witty in the lawe of Moyses, the whiche was ȝouen of the Lord kyng 3aaf to him glorie, that he hadde founden grace in al dignytee, and in desijr, in the si3t of him. And ther stiede 5 up with him in to Jerusalem of the sones of Israel, bothe prestis, and dekens, and holy syngers of the temple, and vsshers, and seruauntis of the temple. In the se- 6 uenthe 3eer regnynge Artaxerse, in the fifthe monthe, this is the seuenthe 3eer of the rewme, goynge out forsothe fro Babiloyne in the newe moone of the fifte monthe, thei camen to Jerusalem, aftir 7 the heestis of him, whanne the prosperitee of the wey was grauntid to hem of that Lord. In these thingis forsothe Esdras 8 weldide greet discipline, lest he passide ony thing of tho thingis that weren of the lawe of the Lord, and of the heestis, and in techynge al Israel al ri3twisnesse and doom. Thei forsothe that writen the 9 writyngis of kyng Artaxerses, comynge ni3[a], token writen that, that came from kyng Artaxerses to Esdras, the prest, and redere of the lawe of the Lord, the ensaumple of the whiche thing writen is sett next aftir.

And Esdras, the scribe, seide, Blessid be the Lord God of oure fadris, that ȝaaf this will in to the herte of the kyng, to clarifie his hous, that is in Jerusalem; and hath wirschipid me in siȝt of the kyng, and of hise counselours, and of hise frendis, and of hise purpred men. And I am maad stidefast in inwitt, aftir the helpyng of the Lord oure God; and I gadride of Israel men, that thei schulden stie up togidre with me. And these ben the prouostis, aftir their cuntrees, and porcionel princehedis of hem, that with me stieden up fro Babiloyne, in the rewme of Artaxerses. Of the sones of Phares was Jersomus; of the sones of Cyemarith, Amenus; of the sones of Dauid, Accus, the sone of Cecelie; of the sones of Phares, Zacharie, and with him ben turned aȝen an hundrid men and fifty; of the sonus of Ductor, Moabilonys, Zaraey, and with him two hundrid men and fifty; of the sonus of Sacues, Jechonye, Thetheely, and with him two hundrid men and fifty; of the sones of Salomosias, Gotholie, and with him seuenty men; of the sones of Saphacye, Zarias, Mychely, and with him foure score men; of the sones of Jobab, Dias, Jesely, and with him two hundrid men and twelue; of the sones of Banye, Salymoth, the sone of Josaphie, and with him an hundrid men and sixty; of the sones of Beer, Zacharie, Bebey, and with him two hundrid men and eiȝte; of the sones of Azachie, Channes, Acharie, and with him an hundrid men and ten; of the sones of Adonycam, that ben the laste, and thes ben the names of hem, Elyphalam, the sone of Jebel, and Semeas, and with him seuenty men. And I gedride hem to the flood, that is seid Thia and Methaty; there we weren thre daies, and I knewe hem. And of the sones of prestis and of Leuytis I fonde not there. And I sente to Eleazar, and to Eccelom, and Masman, and Malolan, and Enaathan, and Samea, and Joribum, Nathan, Ennagan, Zacharie, and Mosollamym, hem leders and wise 46 men. And I seide to hem, that thei shulden come to Luddyum, that was at 47 the place of the tresorie. And I sente to them, that thei shulden sei to Luddium, and his brethern, and to hem that weren in the tresorie, that thei shulden sende to vs hem that shulden vse presthod in the 48 hous of the Lord oure God. And thei bro3ten to vs, after the stronge hond of the Lord oure God, wise men of the sonus of Mooli, sone of Leuy, sone of Irael, Sebebian, and sonus, and brethern, 49 that weren ei3tetene; Asbiam, and A-mum, of the sonus of Cananei; and the 50 sonus of hem, twenti men. And of hem that in the temple serueden, the whiche Dauid 3af, and thei princis, to the werking to the Leuitus, to the temple, of men seruende, two hundrid and twenti. The[k] namys of alle ben signefied in scripturis.

51 And I vouwede there fasting to 3unge men, in the si3te of the Lord, that I shulde sechen of hym good weie to vs, and that weren with vs, of sonus, and 52 bestus, for aspies. Forsothe I shamede to asken of the king foot men and horse men, in felashipe of grace, of keping a3en 53 oure aduersaries. Forsothe we seiden to the king, For the vertue of the Lord shal be with hem, that inwardli sechen hym 54 in alle efect. And eft we pre3eden the Lord oure God, after these thingis, whom and benigne we hadden; and hol wee 55 ben maad to oure God. And I seuerede of the prouostis of the folc, and of the prestus of the puple, twelue men, and Sedebian, and Affamian, and with hem of 56 ther brethern ten men. And I peisede to hem siluer and gold, and prestis vesselis, of the hous of the Lord oure God, the whiche the king hadde 3iuen, and his counseileris, and princis, and al 57 Irael. And whan I hadde peisid, I toc talentus of siluer an hundrid and fifti, and siluerene vesselis of an hundrid talentis, and of gold talentus an hundrid, 58 and of goldene vesselis seue score, and brasene vesselis of good metal shinende,

Mosollamym, the whiche weren leders and wise men. And I seide to hem, that thei 46 schulden come to Luddium, that was at the place of the tresorie. And I sente to 47 hem, that they schulden sey to Luddyum, and his bretheren, and to hem that weren in the tresorie, that thei schulden sende to vs hem that schulden vse presthod in the hous of the Lord oure God. And thei 48 brou3ten to us, aftir the strong hoond of the Lord oure God, wise men of the sones of Mooly, sone of Leuy, sone of Israel, Sebebian, and sones, and bretheren, that weren ei3tene; Asbiam, and Ammum, of 49 the sones of Chananey; and the sonus of hem weren twenti men. And of hem that 50 sernyden in the temple, the whiche Dauid and thei princis 3auen, to the wirching to the Leuytis, to the temple, of men seruynge, two hundrid and twenty. The naines of alle ben signyfied in scripturis.
And I vowide there fastyng to 3onge men, 51 in the si3t of the Lord, that I schulde seche of hym a good wey to us, and to hem that weren with us, of sones, and bestis, for aspies. Forsothe I schamyde 52 to aske of the kyng foot men and hors men, in felauschipe of grace, of keping a3en oure aduersaries. Forsothe we seiden 53 to the kyng, For the vertue of the Lord schal be with hem, that inwardly sechen him in al effect. And efte we preieden 54 the Lord oure God, aftir thes thingis, whom also we hadden benyngly; and we ben maad hool to oure God. And I de- 55 partide of the prouostis of the folc, and of the prestis of the temple, xij men, and Sedebian, and Affamyan, and ten men with hem of her bretheren. And I weiede to 56 hem siluer and gold, and prestis vessels, of the hous of the Lord oure God, the whiche the kyng had 3ouen, and his counseilers, and princis, and al Israel. And whanne 57 I hadde peisid it, I toke an hundrid talentis of siluer and fifty, and silueren vessels of an hundrid talentis, and of gold an hundrid talentis, and of golden vessels 58 seuen score, and twelue brasen vessels of good schynynge metal, 3eldinge the lik-

59 And I seide to hem, And ȝee ben holi to the Lord, and the vesselis ben holi, and the gold and the seluer is of the auou to 60 the Lord God of oure fadris. Waketh, and kepeth, to the time that ȝee take of the prouostis of the puple, and of the prestis, and of the Leuitis, and princis of the cites of Irael, in Jerusalem, in the priue chaumbre of the hous of oure God.
61 And these prestis and Leuitus, that token gold and siluer, and vesselis, that weren in Jerusalem, broȝten in to the temple of 62 the Lord. And we moueden forth fro the flod of Thia, the twelfthe dai of the firste moneth, for to we ȝiden in to Jeru-63 salem. And whan the thridde dai was don, the ferthe forsothe dai the peisid gold and siluer is taken in the hous of the Lord oure God, to Marymoth, the 64 sone of Jori, prest; and with hym was Eleasar, the sone of Finees; and ther weren with hem Josabdus, the sone of Jesu, and Medias, and Banny, the sone of a Leuite; at noumbre and weiȝte alle 65 thingus. And the peis of hem is writen 66 in the same hour. Thoo forsothe, that camen fro the caitifte, offriden sacrifise of the Lord of Irael, bolis, twelue for al Irael; wetheres, foure score and sixe;
67 lambis, two and seuenti; get for synne twelue, and for helthe twelue kijn; alle 68 in to the sacrifise of the Lord. And thei eft radden the hestis of the king to the kingis dispensatouris, and to the litle vnder kingus of Choele, and Cirie, and Fenice; and thei wrshipeden the folc 69 and the temple of the Lord. And these thingis ful endid, thei camen to me, seiende, The kinrede of Irael, and the 70 princis, and prestys, and Leuitis, and aliene folkis, and naciouns of the lond, han not seuered ther vnclennesses fro Cananeis, and Etheis, and Fereseis, and Jebuseis, and Moabitis, and Egipcienes, 71 and Idumeis; forsothe thei ben ioyned to nesse of gold. And I seide to hem, Bothe 59 ȝe ben holy to the Lord, and the vessels ben holy, and the gold and the siluer is of the avowe to the Lord God of oure fadris. Wake ȝe, and kepe it, til the tyme that 60 ȝe take it of the prouostes of the peple, and of the prestis, and of the dekens, and of princis of the citees of Israel and Jerusalem, in the priuey chaumbre of the hous of oure God. And thes prestis and de- 61 kens, that token gold and siluer, and vessels, that weren in Jerusalem, thei broȝten thoo in to the temple of the Lord. And 62 we moeueden forth fro the flood of Thya, the twelfthe day of the firste monthe, til that we ȝeden in to Jerusalem. And 63 whanne the thrid day was don, the firthe day forsothe the peisid gold and siluer was bitaken in to the hous of the Lord oure God, to Marymoth, the sone of Jory, the prest; and with him was Eleazar, the 64 sone of Phynees; and ther weren with him Josabdus, the sone of Jesu, and Medias, and Banny, the sone of a deken; alle thingis at noumbre and weiȝt. And 65 the weiȝt of hem is writen in the same hour. Thoo forsothe, that camen fro the 66 caitifte, offriden sacrifice of the Lord of Israel, twelue bolis for alle Israel, foure score wetheris and sixe, two and seuenty 67 lambren, twelue geet for synne, and twelue kiyn for helthe; alle in to the sacrifice of the Lord. And eft thei redden the hestis 68 of the kyng to the kyngis dispensatours, and to the litle vndir kyngis of Choele, and of Cirye, and of Fenyce; and thei wirschipiden the folc and the temple of the Lord. And aftir thes thingis weren 69 endid[b], thei camen to me, seiynge, The kynrede of Israel, and the princis, and the prestis, and Leuytis, and alien folkis, and 70 naciouns of the lond, han not partid awey her vnclennessis fro the Chananeis, and Etheis, and fro Pheriseis, and Jebuseis, and fro the Moabitis, and Egipcians, and Ydumeis; forsothe thei weren ioyned to 71 the do3tris of hem, and thei and ther sonis; and the holi sed is[l] mengd togidere to the hethene folc of the lond; and parceneres weren the prouostus and maistir iugis of this wickednesse, fro the 72 begynnyng of that reume. And anon as I herde these thingis, I cutte the clothis, and the sacrid cote, and to-terende the heris of the hed, and the berd, I sat so-73 rewende, and dreri. And ther camen to me as fele as euere weren thanne moued in the woord of the Lord God of Irael, me weilende vp on this[m] wicke-nesse[n]; and I sat soreweful vnto the 74 euentid sacrifise. And risende fro fast-ing, hauende the clothis cut, miche knelende, and strecchende out the hondis 75 to the Lord, I seide, Lord, I am con-foundid, and I am adrad befor thi face.

76 Forsothe oure synnes ben multiplied vp on oure hedis, and oure wickednessis ben 77 enhauncid vnto heuene; for fro the time of oure fadris we ben in gret synne vn 78 to this day. And for oure synnes, and of oure fadris we ben taken, with oure brethern, and with oure prestus, and kingus of the lond, in to swerd, and cai-tifte, and in to prei, with confusion, vn 79 to the dai that is now. And now hou myche is, that falleth to vs the merci of thee, Lord God; lef to vs a roote and a 80 name, in to the place of thin halewing, to vnkoueren oure 3iuere of li3t in the hous of the Lord oure God, to 3iue to vs mete 81 in the time of oure seruage. And whan wee seruen, wee ben not forsaken of the Lord oure God; but he sette vs in grace, puttende to vs kingus of Persis to 3iue mete, 82 and to clarifien the temple of the Lord oure God, and to edefie the desertis of Sion, and to 3iue to vs stablenesse in Jude 83 and Jerusalem. And now what sei wee, Lord, hauende these thingus? We han ouyr passid thin hestis, 'the whiche[o] thou 3eue in to the hondis of thi childer, pro-84 fetus, seiende, For the lond, in the the dou3tris of hem, bothe thei and their sones; and the hooly seed was mengid togidre with the hethene folk of the loond; and the prouostis and maistre iuges weren parceners of this wickidnesse, fro the bi-gynnyng of that rewme. And anoon as I 72 herde thes thingis, I kitte my clothis, and the halewid coote, and I taar the heris of myn hed, and the berd, and I sate serew-ynge, and drury. And ther camen to me 73 thanne as many as euer weren moued in the word of the Lord God of Israel, weil-ynge me upon this wickidnesse; and I saat serewful vnto the euentijd sacrifice. And thanne I risynge fro fastyng, hau- 74 ynge my clothis kitt, knelide myche, and strecchinge out myn hondis to the Lord, I 75 seide, Lord, I am confoundid, and I am adred bifore thi face. Forsothe oure 76 synnes ben multiplied upon oure hedis, and oure wickidnessis ben enhaunsid vnto heuen; for fro the tyme of oure fadris we 77 haue be in gret synne vnto this dai. And for oure owne synnes, and for the 78 synne of oure fadris we ben taken, with oure bretheren, and with oure prestis, and with kyngis of the loond, in to swerd, and caitiftee, and in to prey, with confusion, vnto the dai that is now. And now hou 79 myche is it, that the mercy of thee, Lord God, fallith to us; leue thou to us a roote and a name, in to the place of thin halew-yng, to vnkoueren oure 3yuere of li3t in 80 the hous of the Lord oure God, to 3iue to us mete in the tyme of oure seruage. And 81 whanne we seruyden, we weren not forsa-ken of the Lord oure God; but he sette us in grace, puttynge to us kyngis of Persis to 3iue us mete, and to clarifie the temple 82 of the Lord oure God, and to bilde the deseertis of Syon, and to 3iue to us stable-nesse in Judee and in Jerusalem. And 83 now, Lord, what sey we, hauynge thes thingis? We haue ouerpassid thin hestis, the whiche thou 3iue in to the hondis of thi children, prophetis, that seiden, For- 84

85 his vnclennesse. And now ȝoure doȝtris ȝee shul not ioyne to ther sonus, and ther doȝtris ȝee shul not take to ȝoure sonus; 86 and ȝee shul not seche to han pes with hem alle time, that comende aboue ȝee ete the beste thingus of the lond, and the eritage ȝee delen to ȝoure sonus, in to the 87 during aboue time. And thoo thingus that fallen to vs, alle ben do for oure shrewde werkis, and oure grete synnes.
88 And thou hast ȝiue to vs such a roote, and eft wee ben turned aȝeen to ouer passe thi laweful thingis, that the vnclennessis[p] of the hethene folc of this 89 lond weren mengd. Whether thou shalt not wrathen to vs, to leesen vs, for to the 90 roote be forsaken, and oure sed? Lord God of Irael, thou art sothfast; forsothe the roote is forsaken, vnto the dai that is 91 now. Lo! now we ben in thi siȝte in oure wickenessis[q]; forsothe it is not ȝit to stonde befor thee in these thingus.
92 And whan honourende Esdras knoulechede, wepende, falle[r] doun to the erthe befor the temple, ben gedered beforn hym of Jerusalem a ful gret cumpanye, men, and wemmen, and ȝunge men, and ȝunge wymmen; forsothe the weping 93 was gret in that multitude. And whan Jechonias, the sone of Jeeli, of the sonus of Irael, hadde cried, Esdras seide, Wee han synned aȝen the Lord, that wee han sett with vs in to matrimoyne hethene wymmen, of the Jentilis of the lond.
94 And now who so euere is ouer al Irael in these thingus, be ther to vs an oth of the Lord, to putten awei alle oure wiues, that of the hethene ben, with ther sonus;
95 as to thee is demed of the more, aftir the lawe of the Lord. Risende[s] vp, sheu 96 out; to thee forsothe abideth this nede, 97 and wee ben with thee; do manli. And risende[s] vp Esdras, he made the princis sothe the lond, in whiche ȝe haue entrid, to welde the heritage of it, is a defoulid lond with the filthis of hethen men of the lond, and the vnclennessis of hem han fulfillid al it in his vnclennesse. And now therfor 85 ȝe schul not ioyne ȝoure douȝtris to her sones, and her douȝtris ȝe schul not take to ȝoure sones; and ȝe schul not seche to 86 haue pes with hem al tyme, that comynge aboue ȝe ete the beste thingis of the lond, and that ȝe dele the heritage to ȝoure sones, for euere. And thoo thingis that 87 fallen to us, be thei alle don for oure schrewid werkis, and oure grete synnes. And thou hast ȝouen to us sich a roote, 88 and eft we ben turned aȝen to ouerpasse thi laweful thingis, that the vnclennessis of the hethen folc of this lond weren mengid. Whether thou schalt not wrath- 89 then to us, to lese us, for til the roote be forsaken, and oure seed? Lord God of 90 Israel, thou art sothfast; forsothe the root is forsaken, vnto the day that is now. Lo! 91 now we ben in thi siȝt in oure wickidnessis; forsothe it is not ȝitt to stonde bifore thee in thes thingis. And whanne 92 Esdras honouringe knowlechide, wepinge, he fel doun to the erthe bifore the temple, ther ben gederid bifore him a ful gret multitude of Jerusalem, men, and wymmen, and ȝounge men, and ȝounge wymmen; forsothe the wepynge was gret in that multitude. And whanne Jechonyas, 93 the sone of Jeely, of the sones of Israel, hadde cried, Esdras seide, We haue synned aȝen the Lord, for that we haue sett with us in to matrimonye hethen wymmen, of the Gentiles of the lond. And now who 94 so euer is ouer al Israel in thes thingis, be ther to vs an ooth of the Lord, to putten awey alle oure wyues, that ben, with her sones, of the hethene folk; as it is demed 95 to thee of the grettere men, aftir the lawe of the Lord. Arijse now up, and schewe thi will; forsothe to thee abijdith this 96 nede, and we ben with thee; do manly. And Esdras arisynge up, made the princis 97

CAP. IX.

1 And risende[t] vp Esdras fro 'the beforn[u] porche of the temple, wente in to the 2 celle of Jonathe, sone of Nazabi. And herberewid there, he tastede no bred, ne water[v] dranc, vp on the wickednesses of 3 the multitude. And ther is maad a preching in al Jude and in Jerusalem, to alle that weren of the caitifte gedered in 4 Jerusalem, Whosoeuere ȝeen cometh not to the secunde or the thridde dai, aftir the dom of the eldere men sittende, his facultees shul ben taken awei, and he alien demed fro the multitude of caitifte[w].
5 And alle ben gedered togidere, that weren of the linage of Juda and of Beniamyn, thre daȝes in Jerusalem; this is the nynthe moneth, the twentithe dai of the 6 monyth. And al the multitude sat in the flor of the temple, tremblende for 7 the present winter. Esdras risende vp, seide to Irael, ȝee wickedeli diden, settende[x] ȝou in to matrimoine hethene wiues, that ȝee adde to the synnes of 8 Irael. And now ȝiueth shrifte, and gret doing to the Lord God of oure fadris; 9 and parformeth his wil, and goth awei fro the hethene folc of the lond, and fro 10 hethene wiues. And al the multitude criede, and seiden with a gret vois, As 11 thou hast seid, wee[y] shul do. But for the multitude is gret, and the time winter, and wee moun not vnholpen[z] stonde, and this werc is not to vs of o dai, ne of two; myche in these thingus wee han 12 synned; stonde the prouostus of the multitude, and alle that with vs dwellen, and hou fele euere han 'anent them[a] hethene

CAP. X.

1 Whan forsothe Tobie made abidingus[w] bi enchesoun of the bridalis, his fadir Tobie was stirid, seiende, Wenest thou, whi my sone abit[x], and whi he is with- 2 holden there? Wenest thou, lest Gabel be dead, and no man ȝelde to hym the 3 monei? Forsothe he began to be sori, and Anna, his wif, with hym; and thei begunne bothe togidyr[y] to wepe, for thi that the[z] sett dai ther sone was not 4 turned aȝeen to hem. Thanne wepte his modir with vnremediable teris, and seide, Allas me! my sone, wherto sente wee thee to pilgrimagen, the liȝt of oure eȝen, the[a] staf of oure eelde, solace of oure lif, hope of oure after bringing forth of 5 childer? Alle thingis togidere in thee oon hauende, wee shulden not lete thee gon 6 fro vs. To whom seide Tobie, Be stille, and wile thou not be disturbid; hol is oure sone; feithful inow[b] is that man, 7 with the whiche wee senten hym. She forsothe no wise myȝte take coumfort, but eche dai stertende out, beheeld aboute, and wente aboute alle the weies, bi the[c] whiche semede hope of turnyng aȝeen, that afer she myȝte seen hym comende[d], seid[g] on[h] thi wijf, and on[i] ȝoure fadris and modris, and se ȝe ȝoure sones, and the 11 sones of ȝoure sones, til[k] in to the thridde and the fourthe generacioun; and ȝoure seed be blessid of God of Israel, that regneth in 'to the worldis of worldis[l]. And whanne alle men hadden seid Amen, 12 thei ȝeden to 'the feeste[m]; but[n] also[o] thei vsiden the feeste of weddyngis[p] with the[q] drede of the Lord.

[Prologue on the book of Judith[a].]

THIS book of Judith, the holi widewe, 3yueth vs ensaumple to be of holi conuersacioun, and to triste hoolliche in the help of Almy3ti God, as Judith dide, which ouercam oonli bi the help of God the grete prince Olofernes, tristinge in the strengthe of fleschli arm, and not in the help of God.

Prologus[a].

Anentus the Ebrues the boc of Judith is rad among thoo scriptures, whos autour is vnknowen, whos autorite to be strengthid thoo thingus that in to strijf comen lasse couenable is[b] demed; ner the latere in Caldeis sermoun writen among the stories it is countid. But for this boc Nycene[c] synod[d] in the noumbre of holi scripturis is rad to han[e] countid, I assentide to 3oure asking, 3he, to 3oure stedefast asking; and the occupaciouns leid aside, with whiche[f] hugeli I was artid, to thys thing o litil waking while[g] I 3af, more sence of sence than woord of woord translatende. Of manye bokis the most vicious diuersete I[h] kutte awei, onli thoo thingus that with parfit[i] vnderstondinge I my3te finde in Caldeis woordis, in Latin I expressede. Taketh Judith, widewe, saumple of chastyte, and declareth in perpetewel wrshipeful tellingus with the preising of victorie. This forsothe not oneli to wymmen, but also to men, wrthi to ben folewid he 3af, that, 3eldere of hir chastite, such a vertue 3af to hir, that the vnouercomen of alle men she ouercam, and the vnouerpassable she ouerpassede.

An nother prolog of Judith[k].

Judith, widewe, the do3ter of Merari, of the linage of Symeon, ful miche gret in glorie, and of men the parfitere; the whiche in figure of the churche girde of the deuel in the hed, ne she dradde deth for the helthe of the puple, ne the kingus wodnesse quakide; for whi the slepende prince she slo3, and, saued the chastite, to hir citeseynus she bro3te a3een the principal victorie; forsothe she liuede an hundrid 3er and fiue, and is biried in the spelunke of hir husbonde Manasse, in Betulia.

And the seruauns of Olofernes, takende hym, wenten bi the wilde feldis, but whan thei hadden neȝhed to the mounteynes, wenten out aȝen hem slingeres. Thei forsothe, turnende aside fro the side of the hil, bounden Achior to a tree hondus and feet, and so bounden of cordis thei laften hym, and ben turned aȝeen to ther lord. But the sonus of Irael, comende doun fro Betulie, camen to hym, whom loosende thei[o] ladden to Betulie, and in to the myddel of the puple hym settende askeden hym, what of thingus it were, that hym bounde the Assiries hadden laft. In thoo daȝes weren there princis, Osias, the sone of Myca, of the linage of Symeon, and Carmy, the whiche and Gothonyel. And so in the myddel of the elders, and in the siȝte of alle men, Achior seide alle thingus, that he askid of Olofernes hadde spoken, and what maner the puple of Olofernes wolde for this woord slen hym, and what maner he Olofernes wroth comaundede hym to be take to the men of Irael for no more brethe aȝen[n], til thou be distried with hem. But certis if thou gessist thi profecie sothe, thi cheer falle[o] not doun; and the palenesse that hath gete thi face, go[p] awey fro thee, if thou gessist that these my wordis moun not 'be fillid[q]. But that thou knowe, that thou schalt feele this thing togidere with hem[r], lo[s]! fro this our thou schalt be felouschipid to the puple of hem, that whanne thei han take[t] worthi peynes of my swerd, thou be suget to lijk veniaunce. Thanne Olofernes comaundide hise[u] seruauntis to take Achior, and to lede hym in to Bethulia, and to bitake hym in to the hondis of the sones of Israel. And the seruauntis of Olofernes token him, and ȝeden[v] forth bi the feeldi places, but whanne thei hadden neiȝid to the hilli places, slingeris[w] ȝeden out aȝens hem. Sotheli[x] thei turneden awei[y] fro the side of the hil, and bounden[z] Achior to a tre bi hondis[a] and feet, and so thei leften hym boundun with withthis[b], and turneden[c] aȝen to her lord. Certis[d] the sones of Israel ȝeden doun fro Bethulia, and camen[e] to hym[f], whom thei vnbounden, and ledden[g] to Bethulia, and thei settiden[h] hym[i] in to[k] the[l] myddis of the puple, and axiden[m], what manere[n] of[o] thinges bifel[p], that Assiriens[q] hadden left hym boundun. In tho daies princes[r] weren there, Ozias[s], the sone of Myeha, of the lynage of Symeon, and Charmy[t], which is also[u] Gothonyel. Therfor in the[v] myddis of eldere men, and in the siȝt of alle men, Achior seide alle[w] thingis[x], whiche he was axid of Holofernes, and hadde[y] spoke[z], and hou the puple of Holofernes wolde sle hym for this word[a], and hou Holofernes hym silf was wrooth, and comaundide hym to be bitakun for this was moost famouse among alle men; for sche dredde God greetli, nethir ony was that spak of hir an yuel word. Therfor 9 whanne this Judith hadde herd, that Ozie hadde bihi3te, that whanne the fyuethe day was passid, he wolde bitake the citee[w], sche sente to the prestis† Cambri and Carmy. And thei camen to hir; and sche 10 seide to hem, What is this word, in which Ozie consentide[x] to bitake the[y] citee to Assiriens[z], if with ynne fyue daies help cometh[a] not[b] to vs? And who ben 3e that 11

9 of seintus and of riȝtwis men. And these, that ther weren, alle with o vois seiden, 10 Be it do! be it do! Thanne Judit preȝende the Lord, passede thurȝ the ȝatis, 11 she and hir fre maiden. It is do forsothe, whan she cam doun the hil aboute spring of the dai, aȝen camen to hir the aspies of the[e] Assiries, and heelden hir, seiende, Whennes comest thou, or whider gost
12 thou? The whiche answerde, A doȝter I am of Ebrues, and therfore I fleiȝ fro the face of hem, for to comen I knew, that thei shul ben to ȝou in to prei taking, for thi that despisende ȝou wolden not freeli taken themself, that thei shulden 13 finde mercy in ȝoure siȝte. For this cause I thoȝte with myself, seiende, I shal go to the face off Olofernes prince, that I shewe to hym the priuites of hem, and I shal shewe to hym, bi what entre he mai wynne hem, so that ther falle 14 not oon man of his ost. And whan thoo men hadden herd hir woordis, thei beheelden hir face, and she was in ther eȝen stoneyng, for thei merueileden ful 15 myche the fairnesse of hir. And thei seiden to hir, Thou hast kept thi lif, for thi that such a counseil thou hast founde, 16 that thou come doun to oure lord. This forsothe wite thou, that, whan thou stondist in his siȝte, he shal wel do to thee, and thou shalt be most acceptid in his herte. And thei ladden hir to the tabernacle of Olofernes, and shewiden hir.
17 And whan she was comen in beforn his face, anoon Olofernes is caȝt in his eȝen.
18 And hise tyraunt knyȝtis seiden to hym, Who despisede the puple of Jewis, that han so faire wymmen, that not for hem bi riȝt aȝen hem wee owen to fiȝten?
19 And so Judit seande Olofernes sittende in the canope, that was of purper, and thee, and thi name be in the noumbre of hooli and iust men. And alle thei, that 9 weren there, seiden with o vois, Be it doon! be it doon! Therfor[d] Judith preiede 10 the Lord, and passide[e] thorouȝ the ȝatis, sche[f] and hir fre[g] handmaydeh. Forsothe[i] 11 it was doon, whanne sche cam doun of the hil aboute the risynge[k] of the dai, the aspieris[l] of Assiriens[m] metten hir, and helden[n] hir, and seiden, Fro whennus comest thou, ether whidur goist thou? And sche[o] answeride, Y am a douȝter of 12 Ebreis[p], and therfor Y fledde[q] fro the face of hem, for Y knew[r]†, that it[s] schal come, that thei schulen be ȝouun to ȝou in to prey, for thei dispisiden[t] ȝou, and nolde[u] bitake[v] hem silf wilfuli[w], that thei schulden fynde[x] grace in ȝoure siȝt.
